Year 3 Class News

Our Reconciliation Retreat

Last term, to celebrate our Reconciliation, we went to the Redemptorist Monastery. We had an enjoyable day learning about forgiveness.

Sustainable Living

We have had a busy three weeks at school so far this term. Our Green Team have been feeding our worm farms teaming with healthy worms (pictured below right) and collecting and weighing our school's soft plastic waste. Our groundsman, Mr Ridout, assures us that the new multi-sort bin system is working well and that even our Pre-Primary and Kindy students are using the new bin system effectively. Great work everyone! By the positive steps that all students are taking in sorting and recycling rubbish from sip'n'crunch, recess and lunch, we are reducing Liwara's waste footprint.

The first few weeks of this term were almost spring-like, particularly seeing the sunflowers blooming so beautifully along the Kindy pathway (pictured below left). But, as the cold weather descends upon us, our Green Team shall soon take advantage of our new school greenhouses planting an array of herbs.

Also, please keep watching this space for an update about our school involvement in Greenbatch's school recycling program.

Have a great week and keep encouraging your children to sort and recycle their rubbish correctly at home and at school. We've made a great start to the new school term, and it is by working together that we can all make a difference!

Make the most of this school year

Positive parent participation demonstrates to children that you value learning and their school in particular. Children copy many of their parents' views so your positive attitude to school and learning is catching. Parental withdrawal from children's education is a big problem these days as increasingly parents are worn out from working too hard or being involved in a variety of activities. But the message for parents is clear – become involved in as many aspects as practical in your child's education. Their chances of success are better when kids see school as an extension of home rather than merely an institution for learning. Positive parent participation demonstrates to children that you value learning and their school in particular. Children copy many of their parents' views so your positive attitude to school and learning is catching. Make the most of the opportunities that schools offer to assist in the classroom including, hearing kids read, taking small groups in elective activities and assisting children when writing stories. Parent participation is much broader than helping out in the classroom. Hearing young learners read, helping with homework and making sure kids go off to school happy, healthy and with plenty of sleep are important aids to learning.

Here are some more ideas to help you participate in your child's education in positive ways:

- 1. Make sure your kids start each day well. That means they should get a good night's sleep, have a healthy breakfast and arrive at school on time with all their learning requirements as well as a healthy lunch.
- 2. Attend school activities such as open days, concerts, parent evenings, sports events and celebrations. Read the school newsletter and other forms of communication so you can stay in the loop with what's happening at your child's school.
- 3. Consult with your child's teacher about homework expectations and practical ways that you can assist both at home and at school. Each teacher has his or her own expectations about how you can help so make sure you work within their guidelines. We're a Parenting Ideas school parentingideas.com.au/

Find out what your school is trying to achieve for your child and show your support for its aims. Support a broad, balanced curriculum that offers children a variety of educational experiences rather than a program that focuses narrowly on the traditional 3 R's. School discipline is always more effective when it's supported by parents so be supportive of their attempts to promote good behaviour in your child.

- 4. Become an advocate for your child's school and promote its positive features throughout the wider community. Encourage your child to take pride in their school through your example.

Positive parent participation in school and learning is a proven criterion for student success. One practical way to assist your child as a learner is to become actively involved in his or her school-life.
